TENURGY PRESIDENT IS GUEST SPEAKER FOR ANNUAL NATIONAL HEALTH INVESTORS SYMPOSIUM; MEETS NEWT GINGRICH

LANSING, Mich. – Michael Harrington, founder and president of Tenurgy, a Michigan-based utility and telecommunications expense management Company, was a guest speaker at the recent National Health Investors, Inc. symposium in Nashville, Tennessee. NHI (NYSE:NHI) is a Tennessee-based real estate investment trust specializing in senior housing and medical investments.

Mr. Harrington was invited by company CEO J. Justin Hutchins to discuss Tenurgy's success in bringing substantial refunds and savings on behalf of two NHI member senior housing groups.

"These health care establishments are very focused on their utility, telecom, and waste management costs. They realize if they can reduce these costs with a complete audit by experts scrutinizing billings for overcharges, erroneous billing etc., they can improve their bottom line via refunds and credits from these vendors," said Harrington. Tenurgy was able to save each company approximately $100,000 per year.

Harrington's presentation was well received and he hopes to provide similar utility expense savings and refund opportunities for other health care organizations.

The Michigan Chamber's Utility & Telecom Savings program (michamber.com/utility-savings) can help you to identify other ways to save money on your utility and telecommunications bills. Through our program, we are able to perform a thorough analysis of your utility billing, leading to past financial recovery and ongoing monthly savings.
